

From: paul
To: Microsoft ATR
Date: 1/17/02 4:37pm
Subject: Microsoft antitrust

Microsoft has made the government lawyers look stupid. Or maybe they've just been bought off. It's clear to all us software users that the company concentrated on establishing a monopoly instead of product quality. Their software doesn't work well and doesn't have the feature I want but I have no choice because the bought up or ran off any business that looked like competition.

I'd like the government to do its job, protect consumers from predatory businesses. Make Microsoft open up its software so competition can happen. Breaking up the company would be best.

The government lawyers look like idiots or crooks letting them stall and beat down the first decision. It's like convicting a killer and letting him stay out of jail to kill again. That's what Microsoft just did with XP, kill competition again. I may have to upgrade to XP to maintain up-to-date compatibility but I don't need any of XP's few new features and I don't like the way the software invades my privacy and narrows my choices.

Get off your ass and do your job!!!!

Give them back their bribes and political contributions!!!!

Disrespectfully,

Paul Haney